Ir was pretty generally believed that the embers of national discontent left from the Taiping Rebellion had died out altogether. Recent ovents, however, rather tend to disturb this impression, and make it doubtful whother the spirit of disaffection is not still smouldering and in a somewhat threatening condition. Reports of contemplated risings, and suspicious movements on the part some of the old leaders of this formidable insurrection have been freely bruited lately, and though as yet they have not succeeded in stirring up anything like a general revolt against the Manchu authority, there is, with out doubt, a widespread feeling of uneasinoss and insecurity in those provinces where the Taiping ravages were most severely felt. Napking which was formerly the head-quarters | King was acting for a friend. of the insurgents, is stated to be in a particularly unsettled condition. In that city some mischievous persons, probably with an ulterior object, have been cutting off the onenes of a number of the citizens, managing the work so dexterously, however, that the simple folk have attributed their loss to a supernatural agency. As a matter of course, various suppositions have been started to account for these mysterious disappearances, and the latest idea startedevidently the inception of a disloyal mindis that the queue, being the badge of subjection to the Manchus, these seemingly unaccountable deprivations of it show that it is the will of Heaven to overthrow the present dynasty. These reports have been succeeded, the Shanghai Courier tells us, by the posting up of many enigmatical notices. in a number of places, one of which has caused very grave alarm to the authorities and set all the people by the ears. This notice appeared in front of the Viceroy's yamen, and was to the following effect :-"The former King's Ministers, both civil said he ound it on the person of prisoner, when and military, must know the place of his burial-at the back of the Viceroy's yamen. Let them go there and sacrifice to him. This is as likely being a little in liquor leaned heavily against a to be true as not. The invitation to meet the son of the former rebel chief is rather struck him a very severe blow on the head with ominous for the maintenance of order and some hard substance so much so that he had to assemble in force would be promptly checked light ensued. plot may have appead or what steps may not be in contemplation. The publication of this in-HE CHRONICLE AND DIRECTORY condiary notice will, however, in all likelihood prove a wrong card, as the disaffected have not yet apparently matured any plans, and it has only served to open the eyes of the authorities to the gravity of the political situation. The latter appear anxious, it is stated, to hush up the affair as soon as possible, knowing well the evil effect excitement of the kind has on the people generally. They will do well, however, not to neglect taking precuations against any sudden uprising on the part of the rebelliously inclined portion of the population.

THE work of planting trees on the bill has not, we regret to observe, been engaged fir to any extent this year. At present all that has been done in this direction has been as usual, to fill up the gaps caused by failures to grow or by the last typhoon along the road sides in the town and its environs. REFORE MR. JUSTICE SNOWDEN. CLAIM ON A COMPRADORE'S ORDER. LEONG SUM TING V. ABDOOMAN JOHN MX HOMMED.—His Lordship now delivered the following Judgment in this case :- The plaintiffin this action seeks to recover $1,000 advanced by him to a Chinese abopkeoper in Canton named Akwai by way of cashing an order given by defendant to Akwai for that amount. The order is in the following form, and is addressed Canton :- "Compredore Atuk, pay the bearer Chingman Akwai $1,000 (one thousand dollare only) $1,000 (Signed) - Abdoolah John Mahomned.". This document was endorsed with occasions the plaintiff had coahed similar orders of defendant's for Akwai-taking the precaution first of all to have the orders sent to Hongkong and presented to the defendant to "be certified" as the witness termed it. Severalsimilar orders and been, paid. The defendant arrival of the consignment at Hongkeng, the ir endant used to send an order on his compradore for the value. Extracts. LONGING.

BY JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL. Of all the myriad moods of mind That through the soul came througing, Which one was e'er so dear, so kind, So beautiful as longing? The thing we long for that we are, For one transcendent moment; Refere the present, poor and bare, Can make its sneering comment.

Still through our paltry, stir and strife. Grows down the wished ideal :--And longing moulds in play what life Carves in the marble real; To let the new life in, we know, -Desire must ope the ported; Perhaps the longing to be so Helps make the soul immortal.

Longing is God's fresh heavenward will. With our poor carthward striving; We quench if that we may be still: Content with merely living; But would we learn that heart's full scope Which we are hourly wronging; Our lives must climb from hope to hope, And rollse one longing.

Ab! let us hope that to dur praise Good God not only reckons The moments when we trend His ways, But when the spirit beckens. That some slight good to also wrought Bryond self satisfaction... When we are simply good in thought, Howe'er we fail in action.

AN ECCENTRIC AMERICAN MINISTER.

THE DISTILLERY TREE. A correspondent at Calcutta sends us, from the Bengal Statistical Reporter, the following interesting description of a tree that produced food, oil, and spirits especially spirits:- The foresters of Monghyr assert, and probably correctly, that every plant, wild or cultivated, has its use; and certainly even among the luxuriant foliage of the Rurrukpore hills it would be difficult to find a plant which does not ready benefit them in one way of other. The trees which they fell for timber or fuel supply them with the means of getting their daily broad. Their houses are built of the bamboos which grow on all sides, and are thatched with coarse grass to be had for the trouble of happy enough tete-à-tete with them; and so cutting it. The twin-leaf baulim creepers. the spectre like storculias, and sabi grass, supply them with ropes and string; whilst in seasons when grain is difficult to procure the tubers of the wild yam family, supplemented with a little rice, keep them fat and happy. But useful as most of the trees undoubtedly are, there is no tree which can be compared to the little known mahwa. a member, of the natural family of sosp-worts, the bassia latifolia. This tree is a fountain, producing food, wine, and oilfood which is consumed by hundreds of thousands of poor people in this district alone; wine, or rather spirit, to every native of Monghyr who is not a strict tectotaler, and who cannot afford to purchase the expensive European brands; and oil to the wealthy of Calcutta, whose ghi is largely adulterated with mahwa oil pressed on the ripe fruit. Any one standing on the summit of the irrigation annient at Kurrukpore, and looking east towards Bhaguldere, will see stretched before him a vast well-watered plain. His eye will rest on a bundred thousand mahwa trees, which, if tresh from Bengal, he will probably mistake for mango trees, But unlike mango trees, so uncertain in their yield of fruit, however plentiful the blosom may have been, the chief though not the only, value of the mahwa depends on the succulent petals of the flower, which cover the chief proportion is cuten. The residue sup-Monghyr, or is exported to Patua and elsewhere. In yielding a spirit producing flower, the mahwa tree appears so stand or blight, should of itself direct purchased on the ground for about a guinea, and this, with very little trouble or expense, will produce 80 dozen bottles of spirit at London proof. > WILD HORSES IN THE PRAIRIES. About an hour (says Mordaunt) after the owners, an indistinct sound arose, like the muttering of distant thunder. As it approached it became mingled with the howling of all the dogs in the encampment, and with hobbles which confirmed her, twisted the long maddened and excited flock of horses would tremble; and, when it burst upon us, they became completely ungovernable from terror. All broke loose and joined their affrighted companions, except my mare, which struggled with the fuir of a wild beast, and I only retained her by using all my strength, and at last throwing her on her side. On went the maddened troop, hampling, in their headlong speed, overskins, dried meat, &c., and throwfriends who are not yours, and your visit | was heard of them save in the distant yelping the most extraordinary scenes I have ever witnessed, as may easily be imagined by any in daffiness, only partially lighted by the fitful glare of half-extinguished fires and that driven by terror to ungovernable madness.

TETHER BALL A NEW GAME. A new game is introduced to our notice by game, which can be set up at a trifling outlay all if that suits you best. Perhaps in any direction he pleases; he will soon learn A top of mahwa petals may be to yourself. You are afraid of doing what make his hit in the first or second gyration would be disagreeable, intrusive, inharmo- of the ball. It is not always possible to nious; yet it is "dree" work to pass your reach the ball in its first gyration; for it may lays utterly neglected and uncompanioned then be high overhead. The player who no one asking you to join in any of the plans fails to make his bit in the first or second discussed, and you not liking to offer yourself gyration gives one point to his adversary: uninvited. One by one the young men steal eleven the game. Three players must play out to their various postimes; one by one the in turn, each for his own hand, and the girla disappear to their rooms upstairs, whence player who makes a miss must give a point you hear their voices in talk; the master has to each of his adversaries. Four players form his various duties to attend to; the mistress sides; the ground is divided into four courts has her house to look after; you are left by two lines crossing at the foot of the pole; alone, and the chances are that you see nopartners may stand vis-a-vis or side by side thing of any one till luncheon, when they all It will be seen at once that the clastic slowly gather round the table, to dissolve tothering of the ball not only corrects the again as before so soon as the weal is ended great fault of lawn-tennis, where time and You acknowledge the fredom and sans gens temper are lost in recovering over-shots. of your host and, hostess certainly, but you but also introduces a new element in the cirwince at their neglect, and the chances are cular or elliptic motion of the ball, and so that if you are a hot tempor you leave in a makes possible a great variety of hits.
